The parties filed a letter with their proposed “Stipulated Protective Order” and “Protocol for the Production of Electronically Stored Information,” asserting that disputed issues identified in those documents exist, and the parties “intend to promptly submit these issues to the Court for resolution.” Docket Entry No. 127. The Court is not inclined to sign, as order of the Court, documents purporting to be stipulated agreements while containing disputed issues. The parties shall refrain from wasting judicial and their own resources in the future by seeking orders of this ilk.
